The Best of the Best: Becoming Elite at an American Boarding School By Rubén A. Gaztambide-Fernández

For two years, Rubén Gaztambide-Fernández shared the life of what he calls the “Weston School,” an elite New England boarding school. He sat in on classes, ate meals in the dining halls, cheered at sporting events, hung out in dorms while students baked cookies or celebrated birthdays. And through it all, observing the experiences of a diverse group of students, conducting interviews and focus groups, he developed a nuanced portrait of how these students make sense of their extraordinary good fortune in attending the school.

Vividly describing the pastoral landscape and graceful buildings, the rich variety of classes and activities, and the official and unofficial rules that define the school, The Best of the Best reveals a small world of deeply ambitious, intensely pressured students. Some are on scholarship, others have never met a public school student, but all feel they have earned their place as a “Westonian” by being smart and working hard. Weston is a family, they declare, with a niche for everyone, but the hierarchy of coolness?the way in which class, race, sexism, and good looks can determine one’s place?is well known.

For Gaztambide-Fernández, Weston is daunting yet strikingly bucolic, inspiring but frustratingly incurious, and sometimes?especially for young women?a gilded cage for a gilded age. “Would you send your daughter here?” one girl asks him, and seeing his hesitation asks, “Because you love her?”

Editorial Review

Review

This is an engaging and insightful book, which sets the stage for a new wave of scholarship on elite identification. --Josipa Roksa, Contemporary Sociology

Offers hearty food for thought to anyone interested in social inequality and its reproduction via educational institutions. --Amanda Cox, Teachers College Record

The Best of the Best is a must for students of class and the role of great boarding schools in fostering America's elite. --Peter Kuriloff -- Anthropology & Education Quarterly

[The Best of the Best] offers a fresh take on elite boarding schools and is well worth reading for those interested in either education or elites. --Ezra Rosser, American University Washington College of Law

[Readers] will be gripped by Gaztambide-Fernández's rich descriptions and thoughtful insights. -- Sherry Deckman, Harvard Educational Review.

In a book that's both generous and skeptical, Rubén Gaztambide-Fernández penetrates the inner world of a top prep school, and shows how the students first construct, and then rationalize, their elite identities. Filled with irony and insight, The Best of the Best reveals both the opportunities and the casualties of privilege. (Sara Lawrence-Lightfoot, author of The Essential Conversation: What Parents and Teachers Can Learn from Each Other)
